

REES CENTRE

Research in Fostering and Education
University of Oxford Department of Education

Teenagers in Foster Care

ONLINE WEBINAR Wednesday 22 March 2017, 1-1.45pm

Join us online to hear about effective strategies when fostering teenagers.

- Aimed at foster carers and those that support them.
- Open to all. No cost. No advance registration required.
- The webinar will last 45 minutes and look at building good relationships with teenagers. There will be a slide presentation plus time for written questions & comments (we welcome questions submitted in advance). A recording of the webinar will be available afterwards via our website.
- No special software needed, only a computer connected to the internet with speakers or headphones so you can watch and listen to the presentation.
- Frequently Asked Questions about webinars

To join the webinar on the day, click here . Or copy and paste the following link to a browser:

<https://rees-centre.webex.com/rees-centre/onstage/g.php?MTID=e9eb6bf650bc5902eea436ccdfa91c9fb>

Presenters:

Dr John Coleman, clinical psychologist and previously Senior Research Fellow from 2006-2015 at the University of Oxford Department of Education.

Dr Nikki Luke, Senior Research Fellow at the Rees Centre for Research in Fostering and Education, University of Oxford Department of Education.

Teenagers in Foster Care: A handbook for foster carers and those that support them, January 2017 (pdf)

More information Rees Centre website: <http://reescentre.education.ox.ac.uk/our-events/webinars/>